HSA Helps Buy Record Player

The Amisk Home and School Association held its regular meeting in the Amisk school with 16 members present.

The following officers were elected: Louis Prost, finance chairman; Ralph Manning, membership chairman; Don Manning, treasurer.

At the last meeting it was decided that the Amisk Home and School help purchase a new record player for the school. This was done and it was shown at the meeting by Mrs. Schultz.

Mrs. Roy Anholdt read "I'm Against the Home and School" by Richard Lunn, and Mrs. H. Heine read "I'm Sold in the Home and School" by Joan Creery. These two articles were then discussed.

At the next meeting the Governor-General's bronze medal for the Provost and Wainwright divisions will be presented. Everyone interested is welcome to attend.

Meeting Called, No One Present

HYLO — The district regretted that no one showed up to the meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 27, when Mrs. B. M. McCutcheon, home economist, was present to explain about the formation of a 4-H Club in this district. Such a happening is rather unusual in this community. No doubt the hasty date, bad weather and muddy roads are largely to blame.

Sincerest apologies are extended by the community to Mrs. McCutcheon.

Scott Harvesting 40 Acres Of Spuds

LAC LA BICHE — A local businessman, Ford Scott, reports that he is making good headway harvesting his crop of 40 acres of potatoes. The snow and freezing temperatures which struck early in October and caused grain farmers much grief apparently did little damage to the crop of tubers.

Mr. Scott is hopeful that with a few more days of good weather he will have the crop in the cellars.

Date To Remember

LAC LA BICHE — The Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Ladies' Society of Lac la Biche are holding their annual bazaar on Thursday, Nov. 12 in the Memorial Hall, commencing at 3 p.m. There will be a wide variety of fancy work and aprons, a white elephant table and sale of home baking. Tea will be served.

In the evening, commencing at 8 p.m., a giant bingo will be held.

Court Of Revision Chosen By Lac La Biche Council

A full council was present the evening of October 26 for the first council meeting following the annual elections. Mayor Mike Maccagno and Councillors F. W. McMillan, L. H. Vincent and E. Shanks took the oath of office.

F. W. McMillan was chosen to act as deputy mayor and the following committees were named: financing committee, Lobay and McMillan; public works, Hamar and Tkachuk; police and welfare, Vincent & Shanks; memorial hall, Lobay, Hamar and McMillan. The mayor is ex officio a member of all committees appointed by the council. Mayor Maccagno was appointed to attend meetings of the school division board when business affecting the town is to be dealt with.

A court of revision to hear business tax assessment complaints was chosen and includes the following: Councillors Vincent, Lobay, McMillan, Hamar and Mayor Maccagno.

Dates for regular meetings were set for the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month as previously. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the former mayor, S. Hamar, for his faithful service during his two terms of office. In the four and a half years during which Mr. Hamar occupied the mayor's chair he was absent for only three meetings out of 129 regular and special meetings held in that time.

Mayor Maccagno was delegated to attend the convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities held in Calgary, October 29 - 30.

The secretary was asked to write the town planner for a suggested overall plan for subdividing the area south of the railway tracks. A plan involving part of the area had been submitted to council for approval, but it was felt that before smaller subdivisions are approved a general pattern should be agreed upon for the entire area.

The question of an approach to a privately-owned lot was discussed and it was decided that an approach should be built under the town's supervision, but at the expense of the owner.

Accounts totalling $1,707.52 were pased for payment.

Isabel Boulanger Honored At Party

After the gifts had been admired a lunch was served by Mrs Lacusta, assisted by Mrs. Whitford, Miss Lilliane Duperron and Miss Lobay.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Dear Homemakers:

Winter is just around the corner and it is time to be thinking of the sewing and mending which could not be fitted into your busy summer schedule.

B. McCutcheon

A little time spent now in a thorough cleaning and oiling of your machine will pay dividends later on. Unscrew the plate under the presser foot. With a fine crochet hook remove the lint and bits of thread which invariably collect there. Clean the shuttle race and pull out any threads.

If the machine is gummed up with dried oil and dirt, a small bottle of kerosene and an eye dropper can do wonders. Use several drops of kerosene in all the oil holes and around all the bearings. Wipe away the dirty oil with a soft cloth. This may need to be repeated. et the machine stand overnight or until all the kerosene has evaporated.

Place one drop of oil in each hole shown on the chart in your instruction book. Do not forget to clean and oil the parts underneath the head of the machine. If you have a treadle machine clean and oil the wheel and the treadle bearings. If the belt has stretched enough to cause slipping, cut a small piece out and refasten. The belt should be quite loose but must not slip.

If the head is hopelessly gummed up it may be taken or sent to the nearest service centre. Here it is placed in a solvent bath then returned to you in working order. Put in a new sharp needle, the correct size for the thread you are planning to use. Your machine should now work like a charm. Be sure the needle is correctly placed and that the threading is properly done. Always lower the presser foot on to several thicknesses of soft cloth. This saves the spring and keeps the points of the feed-dows sharp.

Clara Stratton And Mitsuo Iwaasa Seal Wedding Vows With Two Rings

PLAMONDON — A pretty afternoon wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Croteau when vows and rings were exchanged between Clara Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stratton of Plamondon and Mr. Mitsuo Iwaasa, son of Mr. Tadao Iwaasa of Brooks.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and illusion net, which featured a fitted bodice with a Sabrina neckline and cap sleeves. The elbow-length gloves of illusion net enhanced the bouffant skirt which featured an encircling band of lace. A jewelled trimmed cappette held in place her chapel-length veil of nylon tulle, accented with jewelled sprays. She carried a white mother of pearl prayer book topped with three yellow and mauve tinted orchids and streamers entwined with miniature bows.

Three attendants preceded the bride up the aisle, Miss Doris Stratton of Waterways, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor; Miss Evelyn Stratton of Plamondon, sister of the bride, and Miss Linda Ladouceur of Edmonton, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identically styled street length dresses of crystalline in strawberry pink, Caribbean blue and sunshine yellow respectively. Their matching colored head-bands and elbow-length gloves were complemented by cascading bouquets of white roses and daisies. Their only jewelry was a cultured pearl pendent, hand-set with sprinkling rhinestones, a gift of the bride.

The best man was Mr. Raymond Hutch of Grooks. Ushering the guests were Mr. Hiro Takeda of Rosemary and Mr. Sonny Ohama of Rainier.

A reception was held for 80 guests at the Plamondon Community Hall. The bride's table was laid in white linen and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. White tapers and bouquets of autumn flowers flanked the wedding cake.

Grace was said by Mr. Raymond Hutch. Master of ceremonies, was Mr. Mac Tamura, brother-in-law of the groom. Toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Ray Schuler of Enchant, to which the groom responded. Telegrams were read, by Mr. Mac Tamura from Medicine Hat from Blairmore, Cassils and Rosemary. In charge of the guest book was Mrs. Kaye Morgan.

For a honey-moon trip to Banff and Lake Louise the bride donned a green Mandarin style sheath dress topped with a brown toned fur cape, a gift of the groom. Her ensemble was complemented with beige and brown accessories and she wore a corsage of yellow tinted orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Iwaasa will reside in Brooks.

Out-of-town guests were from Edmonton, Brooks, Duchess, Rosemary, Enchant, Rainier Medicine Hat, Waterways and Hylo.

By Rev. C. Ness

Since leaving home Oct. 13 we travelled to Fort St. John, B.C., stopping for short visits with Pastor Jacobson in Edmonton and the Valleyview pastor, Peter Toews.

During the past two weeks of meetings God has poured out His Spirit causing hearts to be stirred, broken and melted together for which we give God all the praise.

Sister Ness pastored Fort St. John nine years ago and was thrilled at the growth of the church and the town.

It was also a joy to meet the Taylor pastors, Rev. and Mrs. Keith Agrey, who are pioneering the work there. It has been encouraging to see the spiritual progress made in this north country. We trust it will continue.

Atom Blast In Athabasca Tar Sands May Go If Russia Drops Objections

Alberta may still get the opportunity to explode an atomic bomb to free oil from Athabasca oil sands.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

This indication was conveyed to John A. McCone, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, who just returned from a tour of Russian atomic energy plants and laboratories.

Officials said details of the new provision would be worked out after major issues had been resolved at current Geneva test-ban talks. Generally, the Russians would demand they be allowed one peaceful explosion for each one made by the West and that each application be approved by a proposed international control commission.

The Canadian atomic blast, scheduled for next February or March was called off last Sept. 30 on grounds that such an explosion might revive the East-West cold war in view of the temporary ban on atomic explosions.

Richfield Oil Corporation of Los Angeles had intended to set off the blast in a 17,000-acre field 175 miles northeast of Edmonton. This field is believed to contain 300,000,000,000 barrels of retrieveable oil.

Health Through Chiropractic

COLDS

Patients who have been under Chiropractic care for a time usually comment on the fact that, though other members of their families have had colds, they seem able to resist them very well.

Chiropractically, the common cold is a natural method the body has of eliminating waste materials which have accumulated over a period of time. To the Chiropractor two or three mild colds a year cause no particular concern.

When an individual suffers from too frequent colds it is an indication that the general functioning of the body is below par. The organs and glands which usually remove waste products have become incapable of normal function. Nature, therefore, utilizes the respiratory tract as an emergency exit. When the waste materials have been completely eliminated the cold disappears.

The reason that so many people have colds at one particular time is usually because of a sudden change in temperature or environment, which tends to throw a strain on the system. The body has required more nourishment in order to provide heat during cold weather, and must adapt itself rapidly to a and organs of elimination must be capable of dealing with this sudden rise in temperature. The excess food is no longer required, and becomes a waste product, peak load. If they fail to do so emergency channels must be used such as the respiratory system and sweat glands, and you have your cold symptoms.

Regular visits to your Chiropractor will improve the functioning of the entire body, thus reducing the number and severity of colds.

Alcoholic's Cure Comes From Inside

By HOWARD WHITMAN

PART II in the series "Our Drinking Habits" by this nationally prominent writer on human affairs.

Let's get this straight at the outset: there is no specific cure for alcoholism. No one knows exactly what alcoholism is. All we really know is what alcoholics do: they drink too much.

Yet all over the country, doctors, sanitariums and "drying out" establishments are taking money from alcoholics who want to be cured. This sounds like a gyp, but it isn't. For alcoholism is a strange affliction; once the alcoholic has hit his rock bottom and crawls upward for help, most any legitimate treatment he gets will be of service.

The cure is in him, not in the doctor.

Howard Whitman

"There is no such thing as an 'alcoholic cure,'" says Dr. Benjamin Karpman, chief psychotherapist at St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington. Yet he works with alcoholics.

"No matter what you do some alcoholics will stop drinking. Then the treatment you gave them—whatever it may have been — will be credited," comments Prof. Raymond G. McCarthy, of the Yale Centre of Alcohol Studies.

The director of the Center, Dr. Seldon Bacon, adds, "We still don't know if there is a physiological factor in alcoholism. We're finding about three new ones a year—but they don't hold up."

The search for a physiological factor—a cause in the bodily function of the wild drinker—has been as baffling as the search for psychological causes. So many scientists have tried to analyze the emotions of the alcoholic, to establish the "alcoholic personality," that one researcher, Dr. Edwin H. Sutherland, of Indiana Univeristy, decided to "study the studies".

From the findings of 37 other scientists, Dr. Sutherland concluded that the alcoholic could be "the sad type"—but he also could be "the happy type." He could be an "introvert"—but he also could be an "extrovert." In short, he could be anybody.

Some psychiatrists have refused to treat alcoholics. When I asked one of them why, he answered —seriously—"I don't want a patient who comes in drunk."

That's not as ridiculous as it sounds, for the psychiatrist — in traditional treatment—would disregard the alcoholism as a mere "symptom" and dig back into emotional bedrock. But there couldn't be much digging if the patient were crocked.

Yet many psychiatrists try.

One said, "Some aloholic patients stop drinking in spite of us."

A NEUROSIS FIRST

To Dr. Karpman, of St. Elizabeths, "The chronic alcoholic is invariably the victim of neurosis first, of alcohol second. What has to be cured is the underlying neurosis from inherent conflicts, in which alcohol seems to offer a possible escape."

Putting today's most advanced knowledge together, it appears that alcoholism packs a one - two punch. One—the individual must be emotionally predisposed; he must have the kind of personality which seeks this particular brand of escape. Two—he must be the "hookable" type, the kind of total person—physically and mentally —to whom alcohol is an addicting drug.

And we don't know who that person is until he's already a drunk. But this we know: we know that alcohol is a poison to him, that it has a power of compulsion over him beyound belief, that one drink triggers an irreversible chain reaction, terminable only in oblivion or D.T.'s. He can never be a normal drinker.

Prior to the repeal of Prohibition in 1933 science paid little attention to the "drunkard." But with the re-admission of alcohol as our culture's legally acceptable drug, science dubbed him an "alcoholic." Yale University sprouted its famous Center for Alcohol Studies. In 1935, in Akron, Ohio, a New York stockbroker and an Akron doctor, both nearly ruined by the bottle, started Alcoholics Anonymous. And in laboratories everywhere an army of scientists set out to find "the cure."

NO DIFFERENT

The first discovery was a disappointing one: in body chemistry the alcoholic was no different from anyone else. His rate of absorption of alcohol was the same. Nor were there any chemical reactions that couldn't be found in the driest Dry.

The scientists turned to vitamins. Just examine an alcoholic and you could see that that he was vitamin starved—like a victim of beriberi or scurvy. But again, disappointment. It wasn't the vitamin deficiency that caused the drinking, but the drinking which caused the vitamin deficiency. He drank his dinner.

Next the scientists probed the glands. Perhaps malfunction of the adrenals turned men to drink. Or the pituitary. "Glandular insufficiency," was seen as a secret villain inside a man which, unbeknown to him, forced him to swill alcohol.

Cortisone and ACTH were used to buck up the glands. But again the niggling question: which came first, the glandular insufficiency or the alcoholism? Were you treating a cause or an effect?

MAKE DRINKERS SICK

In 1948 Dr. J. A. Kindwall, of Milwaukee, was traveling in Denmark when he encountered some interesting experiments by one Dr. Erik Jacobsen. This Copenhagen doctor was feeding alcoholics a chemical compound (disulfiram), which he called "Antabuse". It was "anti" the "abuse of drinking. The trick was simple. With this inside you, one drink would make you sick as a dog—only worse.

Antabuse became quite a vogue on this side of the ocean. That it made many aloholics sick as dogs is certain, but how it "cured" is not. Dr. Kindwall himself, who used the drug on patients, later pinpointed its weakness. Reporting on "a woman who earnestly wished to escape from her alcoholic addiction," he wrote:

"After she had begun the use of Antabuse and had been tested with alcohol and had discovered its protective value against indulgence, she expressed the idea, 'Now there appears to be some hope.'

"But this same woman, after taking Antabuse for some time, finally and rather sadly discontinued its use because, as she said, it prevented her from drinking and she could not get along without liquor."

TRANQUILIZERS TRIED

Newest on the scen are the tranquilizing drugs. One enthusiastic report from a clinic in Atlanta, Ga., said the tranquilizers were enabling many alcoholics to quit drinking immediately and "dry out" in an average of three days.

When the proprietor of an old-fashioned drunks' haven in Los Angeles ($50 for the "cure") was shown the report, he laughed. "We dry 'em out in three days, too," he said "We just hide their clothes —they can't go out."

Tranquilizers, like vitamins, hormones and the rest viewed today as aids to treatment, not cures.

Alcoholism emerges as a sickness of the soul. A. A., with its "surrender to a Higher Power," its fellowship, and it love for the sufferer has cured many—some 200,000. Religion has cured many. Many have cured themselves.

Science may yet come up with a magic pill. But more likely that pill is within the man. Remember will power? We used to hit the drunkard over the head with it. Now we know the poor devil only wishes he had the will power. Today's best therapy seeks to free his will — in order to give him the power.

THERE IS NO SPECIFIC cure for alcoholism. But once the alcoholic has hit rock bottom and crawls upward for help, most any legitimate treatment he gets will be of service.

Says Supermarkets Are Panicking

TORONTO—President Raymond D. Wolfe of Independent Grocers Alliance says some supermarkets are panicking and building stores in undeveloped areas to be sure and get future customers.

Wolfe says "ego expansion" panics would bring heavy casualties. He said the theory of being there first with the most regardless of cost would not help Canada's economic growth.

Alexander Hamilton Returns Home From Second Pilgrimage To Mecca

In 1906, Ali Abouchadi changed his name to Alexander Hamilton but he never changed from his Moslem religion. Last year, at 66, he made the pilgrimage to Mecca which every Moslem is expected to undertake at least once in his lifetime.

He made the pilgrimage again this year but unaccompanied by his wife who travelled with him in 1958. His wife was born in the Ukraine but is a convert to the Moslem faith. Mr. Hamilton has just returned to his home at 13504 106 Ave.

He is one of the few Canadians to have made the pilgrimage and he got to Mecca by a roundabout route. Born in Lebanon, he came to Canada with his parents when he was 12 years old. He lived for a time in Winnipeg, then in Edmonton and, from 1906 to 1946, operated a general store in Lac la Biche. When he retired that year, he came to live in the city.

FLEW TO DAMASCUS

Last year, along with Mrs. Hamilton he flew to Damascus and on to Jidda on the border of Saudi Arabia. He visited Lebanon in 1950 but at that time he did not think he was ready to make the pilgrimage to Mecca.

Since only Moslems are allowed to visit the holy places of Mecca both pilgrims had to convince the frontier guards they were Moslems. It was particularly difficult for the Hamiltons due to the change of name and the fact they came from Canada.

A Mecca pilgrimage was once an ordeal and is still no easy thing to do. The heat, particularly, is hard on persons whose homes are in temperate zones.

MANY STILL DIE

Nowadays the Saudi Arabia government has provided fan-cooled rooms, cots for sleeping and even iced water for pilgrims like the Hamiltons who can afford it, but for many the routine is still a long dry march through the desert carrying bedding and food. Many die on the trip and are quickly buried in the numerous graveyards provided for the pilgrims.

In Jidda Mr. Hamilton employed a guide who instructed him in the procedure to follow at Mecca and who arranged accommodation there for him. They travelled to Mecca by bus, their speed no faster than that of the thousands of pilgrims who walked along the road beside them.

Armed guards questioned the pilgrims and inspected their passports to ensure no infidel visited the city. Again and again Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton had to recite their prayers and quote from the Koran before being allowed to proceed.

CENTRE OF EARTH

They stayed two weeks in Mecca visiting the Kaaba which Moslems consider to be the centre of the earth. Each pilgrim is expected to run around the Kaaba seven times. Mr. Hamilton said he "walked around it fast."

After Mecca the Hamiltons journeyed to Arafat, another holy place, and then to Mina where Mr. Hamilton sacrificed two sheep to commemorate the time when Abraham almost sacrificed his son Isaac.

Having made the pilgrimage once there was no need for Mr. Hamilton to go back, but he did for two reasons. He wanted to dedicate a pilgrimage to his late father who was never able to make it himself and he wanted to build a school in his native village of Lala in Lebanon. Funds for the school were subscribed by a group of Moslems now living in Edmonton and the school was completed this year.

How does Hadji Ali, as he is now entitled to be called after having made the pilgrimage, feel about it? He says, "I am satisfied I have done my duty. I have much more peace of mind."
